PREFACE

This volume was occasioned by an inquiry among various members of the American Historical Association on behalf of its Bibliographical Committee as to what was the bibliographical aid most needed by American students of history at the present time. The answers were various, but the one which impressed the present editors most was the demand for an annual bibliography. This was in part because one of them had for a number of years been providing each year for his own use something of this sort. Having experience of the need and having a certain basis of material, the most practical thing to do seemed to be to work out a method more fully and arrange if practicable for continuous publication. Thanks to the enthusiasm and industry of Mr. Morse, then a post-graduate student at Princeton, now at the University of Wisconsin, it was possible to carry out the method with some fulness, and thanks to a fund given to the Princeton University Library by John L. Cadwalader, Esq., and used for the purchase of American Historical Periodicals and Proceedings, it was possible to do most of the work at first hand.

Two or three methods were suggested by various members of the Association as to the best way of securing continuous publication, but pending final decision in this matter, it was thought best to have this volume issued by the editors on their own responsibility. It is a pleasure to be able to say at date of publication, that the literature of 1903 is being gathered under the direction of Professor A. C. McLaughlin in the Bureau of Historical Research of the Carnegie Institution. Those who are preparing the volume for 1903 are in no sense bound to any particular feature of the method used in the preparation of this volume, but it is a matter of sincere congratulation that the real need is to be met under circumstances that will insure the production of a satisfactory and useful volume.

The shortcomings of this volume are no doubt many and the historical deficiencies are probably greater than they would have been if Mr. Morse's aid had been available in the final preparation, but whatever they may be they have been materially lessened by the intelligent and competent aid of the Rev. Paul Martin, who has been in some sort managing editor during the later stages of the work.

INTRODUCTION

This work as completed is an alphabetical subject list with a classified index. It attempts to cover the literature of 1902 on the Americas, exhaustively as regards the United States, rather fully for British America, and less fully for Latin America. It contains titles of books, pamphlets and articles analyzed from the periodicals, also appraisements of books condensed from standard reviews, brief definitions or descriptions of the subject heading employed and Library of Congress card numbers attached to the book titles so far as they apply. It is printed in five and one-half point linotype on a twenty-nine em bar.

As the book was undertaken first of all as an essay in method, some discussion of the forms chosen is due.

Whether the alphabetical subject, the classed, or the alphabetical author form is the most useful for such a work, depends on the person using and the use made. On the whole the makers of encyclopaedias, indexes and library catalogues agree that the dictionary subject form seems to serve the most needs. For the special student the classed form is usually counted best and for him a classified index is provided to supply this need in part. The alphabetical author list, so far as regards books and pamphlets, serves many needs, especially of the book-seller and book-buyer, better than any other; but in the matter of analyzed articles it is almost worthless and for research work hardly better. Moreover the needs served by the alphabetical author list are already pretty well served by other works. On the whole, therefore, the alphabetical subject form seems best and the alphabetical author the one most easily dispensed with.

Both books and analyzed articles are included and in one series. For some reasons it may be better to separate into two parallel series of subjects, one of books and one of periodicals, or, as some do, to separate into two groups under each subject. It is certainly an annoyance to some to run down the list of mixed titles, but on the whole, the most frequent needs are served by the mixed titles and an attempt has been made to reduce the annoyance to a minimum by typographical distinction—beginning book titles with Clarendon and articles with spaced letters.

The rule for inclusion is, in the case of books, exhaustiveness. In the case of articles this is necessarily tempered by a restrained criticism which aims to exclude the too rhetorical and juvenile, but the rule even here is to include when in doubt. The aim of the work is first of all scholarly, but it tries to be useful to the general student down to the point of essay and debate work in high schools and colleges. In the case of historical periodicals, the degree of thoroughness of analysis is generally indicated under that periodical in the list of periodicals unless the analysis is complete. They have in the main been analyzed completely even to somewhat short notes where these were a definite contribution for scholarly use, as many in the Pennsylvania Magazine e. g. are. In selections from general periodicals it is hard to draw the line between history and description of current events. In this matter the needs of essay and debate work have been taken into account and such periodicals as the Nation, the Outlook and the Independent pretty liberally analyzed. The periodical references are probably ninety-five per cent. first hand. Most of the second hand references are those from the foreign periodicals. Of the remainder a few from Fletcher's index may be identified by the form and annexed indication of month. The periodicals done at first hand include all the distinctly historical, i. e. those mentioned under the subject, Periodicals, save in a few cases there indicated. Among the general periodicals those done at first hand include the following:

Am Anthropol; Am Germ; Am J Sci; Am J Theol; Am Law R; Am Miss; Ann Am Acad Pol Soc Sci; Ass Her; Atlan; Bibliog; Bib Sac; Blackw; Bk Buyer; Bookman; Canada Law J; Cath Univ B; Cath World; Cent; Chaut; Columb Q; Contemp; Cosmopol; Critic; Dial; Esp Mod; Fortn; Forum; Gunton's M; Harper; Harv Grad M; Harvard L R; Hist Pub Cana; Indep; J Pol Econ; J Frankl Inst; Lib J; Luth Ch R; McClure; Macmil; Meth R; Meth R South; Miss R; Nation; 19th Cent; No Am; Out West; Outing; Outl; Pol Sci Q; Presb and Ref R; Princeton Alumni W; Princeton Bull; Quar Rev; R of Rs (N Y); Scrib M; Sewanee; South Work; World's Work; Yale R.

The definitions are not intended as much more than a description of the subject. Any one who has much occasion to use indexes knows the difficulty often in identifying the subject referred to, and this feature is intended partly for this need. But in many cases, especially of biographies which do not occur in the ordinary dictionaries of biography, the brief data have been taken from the articles themselves, and as they are not found in the ordinary sources, they form a real, if slight, contribution to knowledge. It must be confessed that in the many cases where the one line definition seems only a description of the obvious, there is little real reason, save methodical uniformity, for including the definition.

The question of appraisement is one of some seriousness. The inclusion of this feature certainly delays the publication of an annual volume, since the best reviews often do not appear until from six to twelve months after the book, and the value of an annual bibliography is in more or less close relation to the promptness of its appearance. There are, moreover, still some who hold that any annotation, save perhaps description of contents where this is not well indicated by title, is superfluous. But on the other hand the experiments of Mr. Iles, and the experience of all librarians with annotated catalogues of all sorts, have shown that to many at least such annotation is of real and considerable value, and the experience of those to whom it is not of value is not evidence in point. Opinion is divided as to whether re-appraisement or condensation from standard reviews is the best method. Re-appraisement may be well with a technical expert as editor and with unlimited time, but even this may be doubted. The point of view of this method is that variant opinions condensed to the last degree, with index references to the pages where the original review may be found, is the most practical method. The chief sources of these reviews in this work are: the Nation, which if it verges toward the less indulgent criticism is yet pre-eminent among our general critical journals, the American Historical Review, indisputably the leader of our historical reviews, and the Dial, which, while in contrast to the Nation it verges to the more indulgent, is, nevertheless, of dignified character and includes a large range and number of books reviewed. For local and genealogical literature, the chief sources are the New England Historical and Genealogical Register and the New York Historical and Biographical Record. Beside the above mentioned sources, many others have been drawn on for occasional notes. The admirable reviews of daily papers like the New York Sun, Tribune, Times, etc., have not been used because files are less generally accessible to those likely to use this work.

The Library of Congress card numbers are added for the sake of the rapidly growing number of librarians and students who find it convenient or economical to use these cards. The great advantage of the method to any one gathering material for study in any particular line is one now generally recognized and the advantage grows each year as the stock of cards increases.

The linotype was used in printing because the method was developed with an eye to the possibility of cumulating every five years. The smallness of type and length of line have been somewhat sharply criticised on the ground of a sample page sent out. The length of the line is due to the effort to confine as many titles as possible to a single bar apiece, on account of the convenience of handling in cumulative work. It cannot be denied that the line is too long for easy reading. The reason for the small size of type is partly the desire to get whole titles on a bar, and partly the librarian's maxim for a reference book, "the maximum material in the minimum bulk." It must always be a question where to draw the line in the matter of type. Any index work not often calling for continuous reading, will bear a relatively small type, and a small type with a little leading is easier to use than a larger type solid.

The classified index was added after some hesitation. It is merely a somewhat rough classification of the subjects in the body of the work, printed from the same bars. There is little cross referencing and where a name like that of Grant occurs under Presidents, it is not repeated under any other head. A complete method would call for an author index, which might have been made by re-arranging author bars as the subject bars were re-arranged, but the bulk involved and the expense dissuaded from this.
